

Adventures In Peacemaking

If you work with children ages five to eighteen, then there is no doubt you have had to do some conflict resolution. This four day workshop is designed to give you activities, strategies and tips for teaching conflict resolution to school age children.

The Adventures in Peacemaking curriculum was developed by Project Adventure and Educators for Social Responsibility.

The workshop will give you the basic strategies, skills and activities to address issues of communication, cooperation, expressing emotions, valuing diversity and resolving conflicts peacefully. This program is perfect for after-school, camp and in-school settings. It is a fun and engaging way to teach young children to "keep the peace".
