Successfully Team Teaching

Mentioning the term team teaching is very much like saying house or dog or even student. We all form a different picture in our heads depending on our experience and perspective. The configuration of team does, in fact look very different across grade levels and even within particular grades. Often the configuration is dictated by the reasons for the teams' formation in the first place. What is team teaching and how does it work? Team teaching has many different uses from working collectively with a teacher daily to just sharing amongst colleagues. We all have some ideas about team teaching but do we really know how to successfully use its' many benefits? With all of New York States new emphasis on higher achievement and increased test results; team teaching can help teachers meet New York State's higher standards for students as well as teachers. We all forget how much we learned from team teaching, we all did it during our student teaching years.
